BY POPULAR DEMAND: SILKE IS NOW OFFERING RELM WIRELESS PRODUCTS, INCLUDING BK PRODUCTS

We're proud to announce our new status as a RELM Wireless dealer. Customers are sure to appreciate the trademarks of the RELM offerings: interoperability, quality and responsiveness.

RELM Wireless has a wide range of offerings that are relevant for many Silke customers. Those in the public safety fields -- EMS, fire, police and sheriffs -- are particularly loyal to the company's portable and mobile radios, base stations and repeaters. RELM is also well known in the forestry industry, which has stringent requirements for durability, efficiency and reliability in remote locations.

Most recently, RELM has become a go-to solution for issues of interoperability among local, state and federal agencies. Its RDPR (Rapid Deployment Portable Repeater) is versatile and meets the demands of most scenarios.

RELM has been building radio communications equipment for more than 60 years. Its focus on quality and extreme durability guides every step, from product development to manufacturing. It manufactures two brand names: RELM and BK.

"We're pleased to be added to Silke's offerings to the northwest," said RELM Sales Rep and Dealer Channel Manager Tamara Carver. "The match between Silke's customer base and those who benefit most from RELM's line of products is very close, and we foresee doing a lot of work together to ensure that customers have the consistently excellent experience with RELM that we are known for." Jim Silke, Jr., echoed the sentiments and added, "There's no question that this new line will be a success. We intend to be aggressively competitive in our pricing so we can get it in use for customers. We believe in its solidity and stability. It's absolutely a good match."
